Co-sponsored by the USC East Asian Studies Center and Shinso Ito Center for Japanese Religions and Cultures, with additional support by the Center for International Studies and Korean Studies Institute

Japan in the Long 1940s: A New History workshop will showcase new, cutting-edge projects that unite the histories of wartime (1937-1945) and occupied Japan (1945-1952). Early career scholars from universities all over the country and renowned senior scholar discussants will demonstrate the possibilities of thinking about an integrated history of war and defeat in the Japanese context. This workshop will stimulate new research directions for both Japanese studies and the global history of war mobilization and military occupation in the 20th century.
